Summary:

The Overstory, written by Richard Powers and published in 2018, is a novel about the interconnectedness of all living things. It follows the stories of nine characters whose lives are intertwined with the natural world. The characters come from different backgrounds and have different relationships with the environment, but they are all connected by their love of trees. The novel follows their stories as they come together to fight for the preservation of the natural world.

The novel begins with the story of Douglas Pavlicek, a Vietnam veteran who is struggling to cope with the trauma of war. He finds solace in the trees of the forest, and his connection to them helps him to heal. The next character is Nick Hoel, a scientist who is researching the effects of climate change on the environment. He discovers that the trees of the forest are in danger of being destroyed by logging companies.

The other characters include Mimi Ma, a Chinese immigrant who is trying to save her family's ancestral tree; Adam Appich, a young man who is trying to save a grove of trees from being cut down; Neelay Mehta, a computer programmer who is trying to create a virtual forest; Patricia Westerford, a scientist who is researching the intelligence of trees; and Olivia Vandergriff, a lawyer who is fighting to protect the environment.

The characters come together to form a movement to save the trees, and they are successful in their efforts. The novel ends with the characters realizing that they are all connected to the natural world, and that their actions have a ripple effect that can help to save the environment. The Overstory is a powerful story about the importance of protecting the environment and the interconnectedness of all living things.
