Grooming is an essential part of keeping your dog healthy and looking its best. Its important to brush your dog regularly, as this helps remove dirt and debris from their coat while also stimulating the skin and distributing natural oils throughout the fur. Regular brushing can help prevent mats from forming in long-haired breeds, as well as reduce shedding.

Bathing should be done on a regular basis too, but not too often - over-bathing can strip away natural oils that keep your pup's coat shiny and healthy. When you do bathe them, use a shampoo specifically designed for dogs; human shampoos are too harsh for canine skin.

In addition to brushing and bathing, trimming nails is another important aspect of grooming. If left untrimmed, nails can become painful or even cause injury if they grow too long. You may want to take your pup to a professional groomer for nail trims if you're unsure how to do it yourself.
